

Kids2go Update Fixes Android Issue

Dear provider,

We have recently released an Android-only update to kids2go that fixes the problem where some Android users were seeing only the date when they logged into the kids2go app. These users were still able to access the kids2go.mobi site on their Android devices to record their meal and attendance data, but could not use the downloaded app.

The new Android-only release requires the provider to delete their current version of the app from their device and then download the current version from the Google Play store. No data will be lost. Once the new version is installed on their Android device they will be able to log in with their same login/password and the app will work for them.

Your providers who use kids2go on iPads, iPhones, and iPods are not affected by this issue and there is no new update for them.
